Employment Law Library

Comprehensive commentary on all aspects of employment law

Stay up to date with this must-have resource on employment law. This highly practical library is authoritative yet accessible in its presentation and treatment of an often contentious subject. A comprehensive collection of employment legislation, commentary, cases and news, the service is complemented by the full text of over 50 statutes and regulations and full text case reporting of major decisions.

The New Zealand Employment Law Library includes the most up-to-date legislation, commentary and cases and covers material to assist with:

- An employer's relationship with unions
- Putting together an effective employment agreement
- Knowing employer obligations in the health and safety arena
- Ensuring you don't discriminate in the selection of employees
- Ascertaining your rights and obligations when the employment relationship breaks down
- Dealing with the institutions (courts etc) with which you would deal in the event of breakdown

Topics

- Remuneration
- Health and safety
- Accident compensation
- Employment agreements
- Termination, redundancy and grievances
- Discrimination
- Industrial disputes
- Holidays and leave
